

Module you glad we didn't say banana?: you, your learning management system, and your library

Marlee Givens

Liz Holdsworth

May 2021

But first, a quick poll

Go to this address and add your answer: <https://www.menti.com/fxps1i1xq8>

Our case study

18 months total time spent

1 year making and editing modules

4 departments within the Library

16 Library employees

3 campus IT professionals

Partnerships, Strategies, Content

Partnerships

- Campus IT
- Academic faculty
- Library partners
 - Public Services
 - Communications
 - Web Development

Partnerships, Strategies, Content

Strategies

- Sandbox and sub-account
- Deliberate editorial bottleneck
- Group dynamics

Partnerships, Strategies, Content

Content

- New GT students
- Skills and competencies
- Pre-existing media assets

Content ideas

Go here and add your ideas

https://padlet.com/elizabeth_holdsworth/snfutro55l76p8t0

Content for rounds one and two

Published

- Basic and advanced database searching
- Avoiding plagiarism and citing your sources
- Check please! Module on source- and fact-checking

To-be published

- How to borrow a book
- Podcasting composition basics
- Library multimedia resources
- Finding legal media for multimedia projects
- Georgia Tech traditions

Tools we use

Creation

PowerPoint

Piktochart

Camtasia

Distribution

Canvas and Canvas sandbox

Institutional video repository

YouTube

Tools we use

Communication techniques

Brainstorming meetings

Content creation sprints

Office hours

Communication technology

MS Teams site

Virtual meetings

Potential partners

Go here and add your ideas

<https://padlet.com/dorngivens/LMSpartnerideas>

Lessons learned and the future

- Invest in creating good quizzes
- Instructional content > informational content
- Include evaluation mechanism
- Canvas has limitations – understand them
- Our plan was a success!

In Round Two, we are expanding our focus to new graduate students, and we are experimenting with Articulate and DesignPLUS

Takeaways

- The campus LMS is a place to provide library instruction
- Plan for the theoretical and technical needs for library modules
- Consider partnerships within the library and across campus

Questions?

Thank you!

Marlee Givens

marlee.givens@library.gatech.edu

Liz Holdsworth

liz.holdsworth@library.gatech.edu

[Attribution-NonCommercial-
ShareAlike 4.0 International](#)

